Baby amazons

Since the beginning of the project in 2010, this is the first time nest boxes were installed in the rehabilitation enclosures. The amazons, which were illegally kept pets, gave a big step, pairing up and laying the first eggs. Two chicks are being cared for by the parents and the family will be released in the Araucárias National Park. Check out the babies' photo album!.

January monitoring

During the field trip we saw seven vinaceous-breasted amazons flying freely in the Araucárias National Park. In the same month, we celebrate 6 years since the first release of amazons in this protected area.

Environmental police amazon delivery

We received three vinaceous-breasted-amazons from the Environmental Police of Lages and Blumenau.

These birds will go through the rehabilitation process and those who meet the criteria will be released in the Araucárias National Park. Congratulations to the Environmental Police of Santa Catarina State for giving a new chance to these little ones!

Araucaria seedlings monitoring

The Araucaria pines planted in honor of each released vinaceous-breasted amazon are getting bigger every day. You can follow the growth of the seedlings in the event page: Seedlings planting in the Araucárias National Park.

Photographic exhibition in Florianópolis, Brazil

The travelling exhibition "Back to the forest" arrived in Florianópolis. Everyone is invited to learn about the project's history from the 13th to 23th of February in the Instituto de Estudos Trilheiros de Atitude. The address is Avenida Luiz Boiteux Piazza, 4810, Ponta das Canas beach.

Partnership with city halls

It is time to say goodbye to Ivandre Bocalon and Eduardo Coppini, former mayors of Passos Maia and Ponte Serrada, respectively. We thank both of them immensely for the unconditional support in the fight to protect the vinaceous-breasted amazon.

We had a meeting with Leomar Roberto Listoni, current mayor of Passos Maia and Fernanda Chagas Paglia, current deputy mayor of Ponte Serrada, who reaffirmed the municipal government commitment to the project.

Together we can do more!
